Blood, Sweat & Tears

7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16

Ticket prices range from $35 to $65 plus applicable surcharges

Blood, Sweat & Tears is not the first band to ever use a horn section, but they are the first to fuse it with rock, jazz and some blues thrown in for good measure. From the first ensemble in the late sixties practicing in a loft on Bleeker Street in New York's Greenwich Village and having crowds clapping on the street below between songs, founding member and drummer Bobby Colomby knew they were on the right course. Since then, the band has never stopped touring for more than 50 years.

The band's second album self-named, "Blood Sweat & Tears," was a success, rising to the top of the charts for seven weeks and yielding three top five singles including "God Bless The Child," "Spinning Wheel" and "You've Made me So Very Happy." The album received the Grammy Award for "Album of the Year" in 1970 beating out the Beatles' "Abby Road." That album went on to earn quadruple platinum. Enjoy Blood Sweat & Tears as they perform your favorite songs with their new lead singer Keith Paluso, an Americana singer/songwriter. After appearing on NBC's "The Voice," Paluso's southern soul and folk background landed him his latest gig as the lead singer of Blood Sweat and Tears.
